

About a billion years ago

Cells join together for survival and development. Sexual reproduction begins; animals start eating each other.

